The council continues to offer assistance to eligible parents with the cost of buying school uniform from the Mayor's Benevolent Fund, a charitable trust that supports local residents in other ways, too, mainly to buy essential household equipment and furniture. Applicants must be in receipt of an income-related benefit and must have lived in the borough for at least twelve months. Help to buy uniform is restricted to children aged 11+ moving up to, or changing, secondary school. The standard award, increased in 2017, is £100.

In 2010/11, there were 38 awards amounting to £2,338.

In 2015/16, there were 23 awards amounting to £1,500

In 2017/18, there were 19 awards amounting to £1,215.

The reduction in the number of awards reflects the fact that some secondary schools over the period in question began helping parents to buy uniform from their pupil premium, thereby reducing the call on the council, a trend that appears to have been reversed this year, however, based on an increased number of applications received, including in relation to a new secondary school opening in September which offers no such help. These applications are currently under consideration.
