Response

The council holds the information requested and the answers to your questions are below.

Last year there was a Statutory Consultation on a proposal to designate Clovelly Avenue as a School Street.

How many invitations were sent out to participate in the Consultation?

As part of the Statutory Consultation process the proposals were advertised on notices and published in the local press and London Gazette and notices were erected on lamp columns in the area. Letters and plans illustrating the measures were delivered to approximately 415 properties in close proximity to the scheme. The proposals were also published on the council's Engage website, where responses were encouraged via a link to an online questionnaire.

Proposals were developed with a view of introducing the measures on a permanent basis. However, it has been decided that the Council will introduce the measures on an experimental basis with the use of experimental TMOs. Experimental Traffic Orders will enable the Council to monitor the effectiveness of the new measures.

If the provisions of the Order continue in operation for a period of not less than six months, the Council will consider in due course whether the provisions of the Order should be reproduced and continued in force indefinitely. Anyone who wishes to object to the making of such Order for the purpose of such reproduction and continuation in force may, within the period of six months from the date on which the Order came into operation, send a statement in writing of their objection and the grounds thereof to Design Team, 2 Bristol Avenue, Colindale, London, NW9 4EW or via email to traffic.consultations@barnet.gov.uk.

How many responses to the Consultation did the Borough receive?

Twenty-five

How many of those responses disapproved of the proposal to designate Clovelly Avenue as a School Street?

Regarding the question “to what extent do you agree or disagree with the proposals for the School Street at Colindale Primary School”:

Eight respondents said that they strongly disagreed.

Responses by email

Nineteen responses were also received by email. Of these:

- Four residents said they were opposed to the scheme.
- Two residents raised concerns as it could cause problems due to the number of home deliveries currently taking place and causing inconvenience to residents.
- One respondent agreed that the scheme has good intentions to improve safety but was concerned the restricted period could be an issue for those with elderly parents or relatives who need support especially during an emergency.

Advice and Assistance : Direct Marketing

If you are a company that intends to use the names and contact details of council officers (or other officers) provided in this response for direct marketing, you need to be registered with the Information Commissioner to process personal data for this purpose. You must also check that the individual (whom you wish to contact for direct marketing purposes) is not registered with one of the Preference Services to prevent Direct Marketing. If they are you must adhere to this preference.

You must also ensure you comply with the Privacy Electronic and Communications Regulations (PECR). For more information follow this Link www.ico.org.uk

For the avoidance of doubt the provision of council (and other) officer names and contact details under FOI does not give consent to receive direct marketing via any media and expressly does not constitute a ‘soft opt-in’ under PECR.
